

What makes a good nomination?

We asked members of our judging panel what they look for when selecting finalists and they have provided some top tips...

1 Stick to the word count – we only have a limited amount of time to review each nomination

2 In the full overview make sure you give information on how the project was service user driven & how the project impacted those who took part or attended.

3 Remember, this will be the first time we are hearing about your project so it's important to include a good description

4 We love to see photos/videos/additional documents that might help us see the process or result of the project

5 Don't include any service user/resident names on the form

6 Include quotes/comments from those involved to help us understand the impact of the project
